Sunken rock off Common head—Secretary island.

THE British Admiralty has given Notice (No. 81 of 1890) that the Master of the S. S. Omapere has reported that, when proceeding from Thompson sound to Doubtful inlet, the vessel (drawing $12\frac{1}{2}$ feet water) struck on a sunken rock, the position of which is uncertain, no bearings having been taken.

The position of the rock in the passage between Secretary island and Wood head was estimated to be a little more than one-third of the distance from Common head (the south east extreme of Secretary island) to Seymour islet (situated about 5 cables northward of Wood head). After the vessel struck, search was made for the rock in a boat, but it could not be found, probably therefore it is a pinnacle of small extent.

Approximate position, latitude $45^{\circ} 18\frac{1}{2}'$ S., longitude $167^{\circ} \frac{1}{2}'$ E., and marked P. D. on charts.

Non existence of Harrington rock.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 128 of 1890) that the following information has been received from Lieutenant and Commander G. C. Frederick, H. M. Surveying-vessel Dart, relative to a search made in December 1889 for Harrington rock, reported in 1874 as lying southward of Coquet island, Howick group, and to have less than 6 feet of water on it:—

The Dart was anchored 3 cables south-eastward of the reported position of Harrington rock (lat. $14^{\circ} 33\frac{1}{2}' S.$, long. $145^{\circ} 1\frac{1}{2}' E.$), and the boats sounded closely around for a distance of $7\frac{1}{2}$ cables, without any evidence of shoal water being observed.

The soundings show the bottom as evenly sloping from $6\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms near the track recommended on the west to 8 fathoms on the east, and no appearance of shoal or discoloured water was seen from the masthead. Subsequently the Dart steamed over the reported position.

On two previous occasions the Dart had passed close to the reported position without any indication of shoal water being seen.

Considering that in the original report there was no positive evidence of a rock, and that had one existed it would probably ere this have been again reported, this examination of Dart is considered to disprove the original report, and Harrington rock has therefore been removed from the Admiralty Charts.

PAYMENT OF RENT BY MEANS OF POSTAL MONEY-ORDER IN THE BURDWAN, RAJSHAHYE, PRESIDENCY, AND DACCA DIVISIONS.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 8th May, 1890.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Government order No. 821—325LR, dated the 4th March, 1890, enquiring of the Board of Revenue how the system of payment of rent by means of postal money-order has worked in the Burdwan Division where it was experimentally introduced.

Letter from the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, No. 23RL, dated the 10th idem, and enclosures, recommending the extension of the system to that division.

Letter from the Board of Revenue, No. 279A, dated the 11th April, 1890, and enclosures, reporting on the results of the experiment.

Read again—

Government notification of the 16th October, 1886, promulgating rules for the payment of revenue not exceeding Rs. 50 in amount a year by means of postal money-order in the Burdwan and Dacca Divisions.

Government notification of the 2nd April, 1887, extending the above rules to all the districts in the Lower Provinces.

Government Resolution of the 20th March, 1888, further extending the above rules to all demands on account of land revenue, of whatever amount, and also to zemindari and other cesses.

Government Resolution, dated the 19th July, 1889, introducing experimentally the system in the Burdwan Division of payment of rent by means of postal money-order.

The Committee appointed in 1885 to draft rules under the Bengal Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885, recommended that the question whether the Lieutenant-Governor, in the exercise of the discretion given to him by section 54 (2) of that Act, should authorize payment of rent by means of postal money-order might stand over till the system had been first tried in the case of the payment of revenue due to Government. This trial has since been made with very favourable results, in consequence of which the payment of revenue by money-order, at first approved for selected districts only, has been authorized for Bengal generally. As a further test, the payment of rent by money-order was sanctioned experimentally for six months in the Burdwan Division, and it is now reported that the measure has proved beneficial. The Board recommend the general adoption of the system; and the Lieutenant-Governor, while unwilling to extend too rapidly a change which may have important consequences, considers that the power conferred by the Act should be exercised in the divisions which in their circumstances most resemble Burdwan.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor is accordingly pleased to direct, under section 54(2) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885, that from the 1st of July next payment of rent by means of postal money-order is authorized in the Burdwan, Rajshahye, Presidency, and Dacca Divisions. The rules of the Postal Department on the subject are published for general information.

ORDER.—Ordered that this Resolution, with its annexures, be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rule under section 54.—From and after the 1st July, 1890, tenants are authorized to pay rent by postal money-order for lands situated within the jurisdiction of the Commissioners of Burdwan, Rajshahye, Presidency, and Dacca.

Decreased depths north-west of Kiu Toan light-vessel.

THE following information has been received from the British Admiralty (No. 94 of 1890) relative to decreased depths north-west of Kiu Toan light-vessel, South Channel, Yang Tse Kiang:—

In the early part of November 1889, the pilots stated that the depth of water in the South Channel north-west of Kiu Toan light-vessel had decreased considerably, 18 feet having been found with the light-vessel bearing E.S.E., distant about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles, where 4 fathoms have heretofore been shown on the charts.

NOTE.—Vessels drawing more than 18 feet should navigate in this locality with caution, especially when near low water, as it is possible the change taking place may affect a considerable section of the river.

Non-existence of Harrington rock.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 128 of 1890) that the following information has been received from Lieutenant and Commander G. C. Frederick, H. M. Surveying-vessel Dart, relative to a search made in December 1889 for Harrington rock, reported in 1874 as lying southward of Coquet island, Howick group, and to have less than 6 feet of water on it:—

The Dart was anchored 3 cables south-eastward of the reported position of Harrington rock (lat. $14^{\circ} 33\frac{1}{4}' S.$, long. $145^{\circ} 1\frac{1}{4}' E.$), and the boats sounded closely around for a distance of $7\frac{1}{2}$ cables, without any evidence of shoal water being observed.

The soundings show the bottom as evenly sloping from $6\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms near the track recommended on the west to 8 fathoms on the east, and no appearance of shoal or discoloured water was seen from the masthead. Subsequently the Dart steamed over the reported position.

On two previous occasions the Dart had passed close to the reported position without any indication of shoal water being seen.

Considering that in the original report there was no positive evidence of a rock, and that had one existed it would probably ere this have been again reported, this examination of Dart is considered to disprove the original report, and Harrington rock has therefore been removed from the Admiralty Charts.

No. 137, dated Simla, the 9th May 1890.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

THE following translation of the Special Regulations of the Ottoman Board of Health, applicable to the Mecca Pilgrimage of 1890, received through Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, is published for general information.

Special Regulations applicable to Mecca Pilgrimage of 1890.

ARTICLE 1.—From the beginning of the month of Redjeb until the end of the month of Zilhidjé (20th February to 16th August), the Lazaretto of Camaran will be open to receive arrivals by sea subject to quarantine.

ARTICLE 2.—During the period of six months abovementioned (Redjeb, Shaban, Ramazan, Shawwâl, Zilcadé, Zilhidjé) pilgrim-ships arriving from beyond the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb, whether their Bill-of-Health is clean or foul, must go direct to the Island of Camaran without touching at any other port on the Red Sea Coast.

ARTICLE 3.—The expression pilgrim-ships means ships expressly chartered for the conveyance of pilgrims going to Mecca.

ARTICLE 4.—Vessels bound to the Red Sea having on board not more than one pilgrim for every 100 tons of registered tonnage are not included in the definition of pilgrim-ships. Such vessels will be dealt with according to the character of their Bills-of-Health, conformably to the provisions of the General Regulation of 1867 applicable to vessels coming from cholera-infected places.

ARTICLE 5.—Mail-boats and vessels carrying not more than five pilgrims for every 100 tons register can proceed to Abu-Saad, where they will discharge, subject to quarantine, their pilgrims and merchandise destined for the Hedjaz.

For this purpose, a Lazaretto is established at Abu-Saad as a branch of the Camaran Lazaretto, which will be open to arrivals specified in Articles 4 and 5 of the present Regulation throughout the year.

Merchandise destined for Yemen not susceptible of infection can be landed at Hodeida under the supervision of the Sanitary authority.

ARTICLE 6.—Arrivals from Egyptian ports, Sambouks and other coasters subject to quarantine, proceeding from one port to another of the Red Sea Coast, will also perform quarantine at Abu-Saad.

ARTICLE 7.—Indian or Malayan pilgrims who take the indirect route via Suez to the Hedjaz will be subjected to quarantine unless they can prove, on their arrival at Jedda, by their passports or other official documents, that they have come from beyond the Suez Canal or that they have spent at least ten days in Egypt in free pratique and in good health.

ARTICLE 8.—Captains of ships carrying pilgrims are bound to conform strictly to the instructions mentioned below regarding the measurement of pilgrim-ships.

ARTICLE 9.—The embarkation on pilgrim-ships of living animals as well as hides, animal remains, rags of all kinds, coal, petroleum and all other inflammable or explosive material, except such coal and animals as are necessary for the service and provisioning of the ship during the voyage, is strictly prohibited.

ARTICLE 10.—On the arrival of a pilgrim-ship in Camaran Harbour or Abu-Saad, as the case may be, all pilgrims will be disembarked and undergo the usual medical examination. If the health of the ship is good, and no suspicious case has occurred on the voyage, the ship and the pilgrims will undergo five full days' quarantine, clothes and effects will be disinfected, the ship will be washed and purified, but the cargo will not be landed nor purified nor taxed.

ARTICLE 11.—Pilgrim-ships which arrive from infected ports, but have had no cholera case during the voyage or after arrival, will undergo (ships and pilgrims) a quarantine of ten days. Merchandise coming from a cholera-infected port will remain on board the ship, if there have been no cholera cases during the voyage or after arrival, but will be exempt from disinfection and from sanitary fees, except in the case of old personal effects and stuffs already used, unwashed wool, old cottons, hair and feathers, raw hides, and other raw animal remains, and rags of all kinds.

ARTICLE 12.—Ships upon which cases of cholera or suspicious cases have occurred during the voyage, or after arrival, will be subjected (ships and pilgrims) to a quarantine of at least 15 days. This quarantine will be renewed each time a cholera case occurs among crew or passengers after their arrival in the Lazaretto, and will date from the day of the last case of sickness. In such cases the provisions of the Regulation of 1867 for Cholera will be strictly applied.

ARTICLE 13.—No pilgrim-ship shall leave finally Camaran without having re-shipped, at the expiration of the quarantine, all the pilgrims brought by her. Vessels which have completed their quarantine without cholera cases or suspected cases among the persons on board will be entitled to free pratique.

ARTICLE 14.—Sambouks coming from beyond Cape Bab-el-Mandeb with pilgrims will be subject to the same rules as vessels specially chartered for pilgrims. They must go direct to the Camaran anchorage, and will be refused admission at all other Arabian ports of the Red Sea.

Vessels coming from Bassora with pilgrims on board, bound for the Hedjaz, will also have to go direct to Camaran, but will be treated according to the tenor of their Bill-of-Health and the General Regulations of 1867 for Cholera.

The same exceptional treatment is applicable to arrivals from Muscat, Zanzibar, and Bushire, provided such vessels are furnished with a regular Bill-of-Health indicating a good sanitary condition of the port of departure, and also if they have not touched at any intermediate port in the course of the voyage.

ARTICLE 15.—Every pilgrim-ship which does not conform to the provisions of the present Regulation will be held to have contravened sanitary rules and be liable to extreme measures regarding quarantine.

Read at the Board of Health and approved at the sitting of the 14th January 1890.

The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to receive, before the 1st of July next, any representations that those interested in the subject may wish to make with reference to the proposals set forth in the Resolution.

No. 1493, dated Simla, the 10th April 1890.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department.

Read—

Letter from the Government of Bengal, No. 1088M., dated 14th May 1889.
Letter to ditto ditto, No. 316ⁿ, dated 20th June 1889.
Letter from ditto ditto, No. 292, dated 3rd February 1890, and enclosures.

During the progress through the Legislative Council of the Bill to amend Acts VI and VII of 1884, which became law as Act III of 1890 on the 21st February 1890, it was proposed by the Government of Bengal that the Bill should provide, in regard to inland steam vessels, that—

- (1) tonnage should be substituted for nominal horse-power in sections 28 and 29 of Act VI of 1884;
- (2) the certificates given to Masters and Engineers under the same sections should be divided into three classes instead of two as provided by the Act.

The effect of the proposed amendments was that, instead of certificates being granted to—

1st class Masters and Engineers for vessels of 80 nominal horse-power and upwards, and
2nd class Masters and Engineers for vessels of under 80 nominal horse-power, certificates would be granted to—

1st class Masters for vessels of 350 tons gross and upwards, 2nd class Masters for vessels of 100 and under 350 tons gross, and 3rd class Masters for vessels of under 100 tons gross; and Engineers for vessels with engines of 80 nominal horse-power or upwards;
Engine-drivers (1st class) for vessels of 30 and less than 80 nominal horse-power.
Engine-drivers (2nd class) for vessels of less than 30 nominal horse-power.

2. These proposals were made at so late a date that it was impossible to properly consider them without adjourning further progress with the Bill until the next session of the Council. For this reason, and because they were strongly opposed by some owners of inland steamers in Calcutta, the Bill was passed without the amendments proposed. It will be seen, however, from the proceedings in the Legislative Council of the Governor General, published in the Gazette of India of the 1st March 1890, that an undertaking was given that the questions raised should be fully considered in communication with the Local Governments; and the Governor General in Council now desires that the question may be taken into consideration, and that the opinions of the Local Governments may be expressed as soon as convenient after consultation with owners of inland steam vessels.

3. The issues arising out of the proposals are whether it is necessary that small steamers of the class of launches should, in respect of liability to survey and the possession of certificates of competency or service for their Masters or Engine-drivers, be subject in any way to the provisions of Act VI of 1884; and, if it is accepted that they should be subject to the Act in these respects, whether the proposals made by the Government of Bengal are proper, or whether any, and if so what, modifications should be made in them.

4. The state of the case at present is that in Burma and Bengal launches are surveyed under the rules for the survey of inland steam vessels sanctioned under Act VI of 1884—for Burma by the letter from this Department, No. 209, dated the 13th January 1890, and for Bengal by letter No. 4, dated the 3rd January 1888. They can only ply under a certificate of survey, whether they are used for private purposes or for general traffic. In Assam no rules for the conduct of surveys have as yet been made under the Act, but surveys have been made under executive orders. In Bombay also no rules have as yet been sanctioned under the terms of Act VI of 1884.

5. It has been ascertained that in Bengal launches are generally surveyed, though a few, said to be solely employed for private purposes and not engaged in carrying passenger traffic, have not been surveyed as yet.

6. It should now be considered whether small steamers and launches should be exempted from the operation of the Act or brought under its provisions. If it is considered that exemptions should be allowed, it should be stated—

- (1) whether only private launches and small steamers not plying for hire should be exempted, and if so, what should be the limit of exemption in respect of tonnage or horse-power;
- (2) whether launches and small steamers plying for hire should also be exempted, and if so, at what limit in respect of tonnage or horse-power the exemption should be refused.

7. Next, as regards the requirement of certificated Masters, Engineers, and Engine-drivers, for Bengal and Burma rules for examination and the grant of certificates have been sanctioned—for Bengal by the letter from this Department, No. 455, dated the 27th January 1890, and for Burma by letter No. 209, dated 13th January 1890. For Bombay and Assam no rules have as yet been sanctioned.

8. It should now be considered and stated—

- (1) whether any modifications in the rules for provinces where rules are now in force are required either as to total exemption of launches (the limits of exemption recommended being given), or as to exemption only of launches not plying for hire and solely employed for private purposes, and whether in provinces for which rules have not been sanctioned as yet it is desired that one or other exemption should be made; or
- (2) whether the proposals of the Government of Bengal are accepted.

ENCLOSURES OF RESOLUTION NO. 1493 OF 1890.

No. 1088 (Marine), dated 14th May 1889.

From—W. B. BERTIE, Esq., Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Dept.

UNDER the provisions of Section 11 of the Inland Steam-vessels Act, VI of 1884, the certificate of survey, among other matters, specifies the number of passengers an inland steam-vessel is fit to carry, but there is no provision in the Act for the punishment of the owner or master of such a vessel for carrying passengers in excess of the number stated in the survey certificate. Cases having recently been reported to this Government of inland steamers carrying excess passengers, the Advocate-General was asked whether any legal action could be taken against the owners or masters of such vessels. A copy of the Advocate-General's reply* is enclosed, from which it will be seen that there is no law under which the carriage of passengers in excess of the number entered in the certificate of survey under the Inland Steam-vessels Act is made an offence per se.

When the number of passengers carried is dangerous, action may be taken under Section 282 of the Indian Penal Code; but in a prosecution under the Penal Code, it would be necessary to prove the danger, which can in most cases be done only after an accident has happened, and in some cases not even then. In these circumstances, the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that it is very necessary that the Act should be amended, and a penalty provided for carrying excess passengers. Section 37 of the Native Passenger Ships Act, X of 1887, provides a penalty for carrying passengers in excess of the number allowed under the provisions of that Act. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that a similar provision should be inserted in the Inland Steam-vessels Act, and in his opinion a fine of Rs. 200 would be an adequate punishment.

2. In the Indian Steam Ships Act, VII of 1884, no penalty is provided for carrying excess passengers, and in the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor it is equally necessary that a punishment should be provided for the offence in this Act also.

3. There is another point in the Inland Steam-vessels Act in connection with which an amendment is, in the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor, necessary. Under section 28 (2) of the Act, an inland steamer having engines of under 80 nominal horse-power is required to have a second class master and an engine-driver or a man having both a second class master's and an engine-driver's certificate. This, in effect, means that such a vessel is required to have a native serang and a tindal who have passed very simple examinations. One of the Steamer Companies has taken advantage of this provision, and has built several steamers of 79 nominal horse-power. The steamers are of over 300 tons measurement; their boiler pressure is 100lb; they have twin compound engines, steam steering gear, steam starting gear, and steam windlasses. Under the Act, these steamers are placed on the same footing as regards the qualifications of the men in charge of them as the smallest steam launches. The men with the lower certificates are not fit for the charge of them, but the examinations they are required to pass cannot be made more strict, as, were this done, the men in charge of the smaller steamers would not be able to pass them, and the owners of such steamers would be put to great expense in obtaining the services of men with higher qualifications than are required. The subject has received the Lieutenant-Governor's careful consideration in the light of the experience gained in working the Act, and His Honour has arrived at the conclusion that it is desirable that a second class master should not be allowed to have charge of a steamer measuring more than 200 tons gross, and that an engine-driver should not be allowed to handle engines of more than 50 horse-power. The matter is of great importance in Bengal, where the steamers plying on inland waters are very numerous, and I am directed to recommend that section 28 (2) of the Inland Steam-vessels Act should be amended so as to bring the size and horse-power of steamers, which can be in charge of men holding the inferior certificates, within the limits above specified.

No. 3160, dated 20th June 1889.

From—J. E. O'CONOR, Esq., Assistant Secretary to the Government of India,
Finance and Commerce Department,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1088 (Marine), dated the 14th May 1889, suggesting—

- (1) that the Inland Steam-vessels Act, VI of 1884, should be amended so as to provide for the punishment of the owner or master of a vessel for carrying passengers in excess of the number stated in the survey certificate;
- (2) that a similar amendment should be made in the Indian Steam-ships Act, VII of 1884;
- (3) that Section 28 (2) of the Inland Steam-vessels Act be amended so as to provide that a second class master shall not be allowed to have charge of a steamer measuring more than 200 tons gross, and that an engine-driver shall not be allowed to handle engines of more than 50 horse-power.

2. I am to state that the first of these amendments will be made by the insertion of a clause in the Inland Steam-vessels Act imposing a penalty for carrying passengers in excess of the number on the certificate.

3. As regards the second, I am to state that no amendment of the Indian Steam-ships Act is required, for no steam-ships surveyed under this Act could carry passengers in excess of the number stated on the certificate without being liable to the penalties imposed by the Native Passenger Ships Act, 1887, or the Emigration Act, 1883.

4. As regards the third, I am to say that the Governor-General in Council thinks that it is expedient to defer consideration of the proposal until the opinions of those engaged in the trade and interested in the question are ascertained. If the Government of Bengal considers the amendment to be really required, I am to suggest that this may be done, and the opinions obtained reported to the Government of India, together with fuller statement of the reasons for the proposal than are given in the letter under reply.

No. 292 Marine, dated 3rd February 1890.

From—W. B. BERTIE, Esq., Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Dept.

I AM now directed by the Lieutenant-Governor to reply to your letter [No. 3160], dated the 24th of June last, in which you communicated the views of the Government of India on the suggestions made by this Government for the amendment of the Indian Steam-ships Act, 1884, and the Inland Steam-vessels Act, 1884.

2. As regards the amendment of the Indian Steam-ships Act, which was proposed in my letter No. 1088 M, in order to provide for the punishment of the owner or master of a vessel for carrying passengers in excess of the number stated in the survey certificate, I am to say, with reference to the remarks contained in the 3rd paragraph of your letter, that cases sometimes occur in which steamers carry passengers to and from Indian ports without becoming subject to the provisions of either the Native Passenger Ships Act, 1887, or the Emigration Act, XXI of 1883. It has, however, been ascertained that under the Order in Council, dated the 17th of October 1884, the carrying of passengers in excess of the number entered in a certificate granted under Act VII of 1884 is, in the case of a vessel not holding a certificate under one of the other Acts cited, an offence under the English Merchant Shipping Act, and under the circumstances the Lieutenant-Governor will not press the proposal.

3. The suggestion to amend section 28 of Act VI of 1884, so as to place a narrower limit on the size of inland steam-vessels which are allowed to be in charge of men of the lowest qualifications that may be prescribed by the rules made under the Act has, in accordance with the remarks made in the concluding paragraph of your letter, been referred to those engaged in the trade and interested in the question, and I am now to submit, for the information of the Government of India, copies of the letters* which have been received from the three principal Steamer Companies on the subject.

2. From Messrs. MacNeill & Co., dated the 3rd September 1889.

3. From Messrs. Hoare, Miller & Co., No. 6763—29078, dated the 6th September 1889.

If the Eastern Bengal State Railway be excluded, these three Companies may be said to have all the inland passenger traffic in their hands.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor does not propose to discuss all the questions raised by Messrs. Kilburn & Co. and Messrs. MacNeill & Co., as to do so would only confuse the issue in view. The object of the Government is not, as would appear to be supposed by these firms, to prevent them from employing natives on work for which they are fit, but to facilitate the employment of natives by reducing the standard of examination for the lowest class. The letter of Messrs. Hoare, Miller & Co. who represent the Calcutta Steam Navigation Company, Limited, contains a statement of the position to which no exception can be taken, and the proposal made in the concluding paragraph of their letter is entirely in accord with what is wanted. The Lieutenant-Governor would even make the tonnage limit a little less strict than that proposed by them, so as not to interfere with the steamers now running on the Brahmapootra. Messrs. Kilburn & Co. submit a similar proposal, but they deprecate the substitution of tonnage for horse-power in fixing the limits up to which masters of the different classes may hold charge.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor is advised that the nominal horse-power of the engines of these steamers bears no fixed ratio either to the real power of the engines or the size of the vessels, and this being the case, the "nominal horse-power" is not for the purpose of determining the size of the steamer which a master of a certain class should be allowed to command a proper criterion. On the other hand, the gross tonnage of a steamer varies with her size, and does therefore appear to be the proper point to consider in determining the class of master that is required to take charge of any given vessel. Gross tonnage has accordingly been taken in lieu of nominal horse-power in determining the classes of master in the proposals contained in the following paragraph.

6. After consideration of the representations of those interested in the trade, the Lieutenant-Governor has arrived at the conclusion that Messrs. Kilburn & Co.'s suggestion is quite to the point, and that the amendment of the Act should take the form of dividing the masters into three classes, the first to be qualified for the charge of inland vessels of any tonnage, the second for the charge of vessels of under 350 tons, and the third of the charge of vessels of under 100 tons. His Honour would in the same manner divide the engineers into three classes, the first to be qualified to take charge of any engines, the second of engines of under 80 nominal horse-power, and the third of engines of under 30 nominal horse-power.

7. In framing the rules for the examination of each class, the qualifications required of the first class would be such as only Europeans and Eurasians would ordinarily possess. The standard required of the second class would be such as natives who have served in the smaller vessels might readily attain, and for the third class an examination of a very simple description would be prescribed.

8. The limit of 350 tons gross for second class masters includes all steamers now plying in Bengal in charge of native commanders, and the limits proposed for the several classes of engineers are the same as those which are suggested by Messrs. Kilburn & Co. The imposition of these limits will not result in any unnecessary interference with the existing trade, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that they will be accepted by the Government of India and prescribed in the amending Bill which is now before the Legislative Council.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor has in separate letters* proposed other amendments, and there remains only one point to which His Honour desires to draw attention. The Act does not provide for the issue of "certificates of service," and the Lieutenant-Governor has reason to believe that when the rules, whether revised in accordance with the amendments proposed in this letter or not, for the examination of masters and engineers are strictly enforced, cases will arise in which the want of power to issue "certificates of service" may inflict hardship on individuals and cause unnecessary interference with the inland steamer trade. The Lieutenant-Governor would therefore recommend that the Act should be amended so as to provide that the Local Government may, at its discretion, issue "certificates of service" to men who have commanded or driven inland steam-vessels for a period of three years, the certificates in each case to be for the class to which the steamer which the man has commanded or driven belongs.

10. With the several amendments that have now been proposed, the Lieutenant-Governor believes that the Act will meet all requirements for some time to come, and His Honour trusts that the present opportunity will be used to attain so desirable a result.

Dated 3rd September 1889.

From—MESSRS. KILBURN & Co., Managing Agents, India General Steam Navigation Company, "Limited,"

To—The Secretary to the Port Commissioners, Calcutta.

Bengal Government's letter No 1760 (Marine).

WE have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 1212 of the 31st ultimo, handing us a copy of the above-quoted letter on the subject of second class masters and drivers.

1. As the matter is an important one to us, we may be pardoned if we go into the question fully, and trust to prove satisfactorily that the apprehensions of Government regarding the danger to life and property are entirely unfounded.

2. The policy of the Government in the employment of native labour has always been progressive; but as the proposal before us seeks to deal with the subject in a retrogressive spirit, we append an account of the steps by which the gradual employment of trained native employés has attained its present dimensions in our service. Act I of 1868, which is the earliest to our knowledge dealing with the subject under review, enacted that native drivers, after passing an examination before a duly appointed Board, were entitled to work engines up to 50 N. H. P. No rules were laid down regarding the examination of serangs; but it appears that somewhere towards 1880 the Port Office examined and granted certificates to men for plying within the limits of the Port of Calcutta, restricting the holders of these certificates to vessels of 100 tons. These certificates, we understand, are informal ones, and were only intended to apply to serangs of steam-launches plying in a crowded port such as Calcutta. Act VI of 1884 (the Inland Steam-vessels Act) took up the position of both commanders and engineers, and made provision for the granting of certificates to second class masters (serangs) and engine drivers (tindals). The 50 N. H. P. limit of 1868 was raised to 80 N. H. P. in 1884, rightly so, as in the interim larger steamers and more powerful engines had been constructed, and men had become more accustomed to the increased size and power. Not only this, but a higher average of intelligence obtained among the class of natives serving in these steamers under European supervision. Unfortunately, although Act VI of 1884 provides for the class of men who shall be empowered to take charge of vessels up to 80 N. H. P., no Rules under the Act which define the examination these men have to pass have yet been published. We fear this has had something to do with the re-opening of the question, and it will be remembered that we were compelled recently to address the Government on the deadlock that ensued from our not being able to send up fully competent men for examination owing to the non-formulation of the necessary rules.

3. In 1870 this Company first essayed natives in independent charge in a small steamer working as a feeder in Assam. About 1874 another steamer was constructed. In 1882 three more were added to the fleet intended to be worked solely by natives. The experience gained in these five vessels gave us every confidence in the ability of trained natives to command the smaller class of steamers, and in 1885 this Company secured the contract for the carriage of Her Majesty's Mails to Cachar. Eight steamers were then built; and from that date down to the present time a daily Mail Service has been maintained by steamers wholly commanded by the men who are stigmatised in the letter now under review as being unfit for the posts that they have held with credit for years. The other large Steamer Companies, who will doubtless speak for themselves, have been running a daily Mail Service to Assam since 1883, without the loss of a single boat, with steamers similarly commanded. We give a short list of the vessels in this Company's service alone (apart from launches plying in Calcutta) now commanded by natives, and showing gradual development of the trade:—

Built in 1870	Nazeera.
" 1874	Gauhati.
" 1882	Tura, Kohima, Nowgong.
" 1885	Lark, Linnet, Robin, Thrush, Ganesa.
" 1886	Atavis, Wren, Swift, Starling, Jagannath.
" 1887	Balaram.
" 1888	Egret, Gannet, Ibis.
" 1889	Penguin, Petrel, Heron.

Every one of these vessels has been commanded by natives from the time it was launched, and we are pleased to say that every vessel is still afloat and engaged in active service. From the time when we first placed natives in charge, we have never lost a steamer in their charge, never had any serious collision involving loss of life, and never had a boiler explosion. We regret to say it, but we very much wish that we could make the same statement with regard to our European staff.

4. Directing our attention to the letter now before us, we notice the words "a Steamer Company which has taken advantage of this provision (80H P.) and has built several steamers of 79H.P." We do not know whether this is intended to apply to us; but as we have built several steamers of 77H.P., we may perhaps consider the allusion is intended for this Company. We fail to see how we have merited the implied censure in "taking advantage of this provision." The Act clearly lays down the limit "under 80N. H.P.," and in constructing steamers of 77N. H.P., we are no more taking advantage than a man on 80 days' leave would be taking advantage if he rejoined on the 77th day.

5. It was on the faith of the 80H.P. limit, passed in 1884, that, having tried larger steamers commanded by Europeans without success, we constructed steamers representing a block value of 9 lakhs in 1888-89, all strictly within the provisions of what could not in any way be termed hasty legislation. Now that these steamers are constructed and are running with success, if the same legislature reverses its own decrees and reverts to the limit of 50H.P.—the limit of 1868—21 years ago, it is we who would suffer the hardship and have serious grounds for complaint.

6. We need not point out to Government the injustice to those who have embarked enormous capital in a particular trade, should such a reversal of policy be actually enforced, especially when the reasons for such a reversal are shown not to be borne out by the broad facts of the case. We would also respectfully call attention to the fact that such a policy would be entirely against the progressive spirit of the age. All are familiar with the strides that have taken place in Industrial India within the last twenty years, and we may perhaps be allowed to point to Indian railways where the avowed policy of Government is to advance the employment of natives as they prove their fitness for the work. The reports of the Directors of State and Guaranteed Railways year after year unfailingly refer to the larger employment of native drivers who have been trained to posts of responsibility.

7. The letter goes on to say: "These steamers are of over 300 tons measurement; their boiler pressure is 100lb; they have twin compound engines, steam-steering gear and steam windlasses." This statement is a curious mixture and betrays want of acquaintance with facts. None of the "300 tons" steamers has twin compound engines. Out of the 22 steamers mentioned in our list, 6 are of 300 tons measurement, or 101 tons register; 3 only have twin compound engines; 6 have steam-steering gear and steam windlasses (in addition to hand-gear), and which, it is needless to say, forms an important element of safety instead of danger as seems to be implied. As for the boiler pressure of 100lb, this is the normal pressure of all ordinary marine boilers, whether in a launch of 5 H. P. or in a large steamer of 1,500 H. P. The difference between them lies, not in the pressure, but in the area over which that pressure is distributed.

8. Later on the letter proposes a restriction to a certain tonnage and horse-power—"with a view to avoid the risk to human life and property that is at present incurred." We quite fail to understand how any case is made out to support this assertion. No Company in India has had the long and varied experience that we claim to have had, and the fact that for four years we have had, besides all the older steamers enumerated in native command, eight steamers running a daily passenger and Mail Service under all conditions of weather, without a single case of loss of life and property, appears to us the most conclusive evidence of the erroneous character of the charge that we could offer. We may perhaps remind Government that before men are placed in positions of trust, they pass through a long and varied training under our European commanders and engineers. All have been many years in our larger steamers before we place them in independent charge of the smallest vessel, and they then are promoted to larger vessels according to their ability and trustworthiness. It so happens that at the present moment our steamer, the Heron, is towing the Rhotas, with His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and party. This steamer is commanded by one of the men whom the letter states are unfit to command vessels of this class. The serang in question, we may remark, has been in independent command since 1872. During this long period of seventeen years he has never had a single accident which has resulted in loss of life or property, which is supposed to be endangered by his presence on board.

9. It must not be thought from the foregoing remarks that our object is to obstruct Government in its laudable desire to safeguard life and property. Our interests are at one with them; as in any serious accident we should ourselves be the severest sufferers, none of our block being insured. Apart from this, a serious disaster would cause distrust in the minds of the travelling public, upon whom our revenue depends and who are principally ignorant people who would not seek to enquire into cause, but would only see results. Our principal traffic is with this class—natives who will travel if they can travel cheaply, but who would otherwise not travel at all by steamer. It is only by the closest economy in working that many of our services can be maintained. To impose the additional tax incurred in the services of highly-paid European labour would result in the closing of the lines at immense inconvenience to the public and to ourselves. The receipts would not stand it.

10. The Government, we take it, are in the difficulty of being unable to determine the prima facie fitness of a man whether to run a small launch or to be entrusted with a large steamer such as we employ. As the Act at present stands, the second class master's certificate is applicable to both. We quite see that a man who may very well do the one may be incompetent to do the other, and we therefore venture to offer a suggestion which we think may get over the difficulty. Let the "first class master" stand as at present; there is no question about him. Divide the native element into two classes—"second class master" and "serang," the first to command up to 80 N. H. P., and the second launches and small craft up to, say, 30 N. H. P. The introduction of a short clause in the Act would then solve the whole difficulty.

11. In the Rules under the Act, "the second class master" should be examined by two persons specially appointed to hold such examinations at stated intervals. One of the examiners should be an official of the Port Office, the other a Marine Officer of either of the Inland Steam Services duly qualified as a first class master. The qualifications of a second class master might be as follows:—(1) He should produce certificates showing that he has served as principal serang in an inland steamer under first class master for a period of, say, two or three years. (2) He should pass the test in colours, rule of the road, the ship channels of the Hooghly, the routes of the Sunderbuns, and the general handling of a steamer in emergencies.

12. The "serang in charge" might be examined in the simple rules of navigation by the Harbour Master's Department.

13. We think that some such rules as these would satisfy Government that only capable men were placed in positions of trust, and end the discussion that has cropped up in one form or another for some time past and in which our interests are involved.

14. If thought necessary, "native drivers" could also be divided in the same manner into first and second class drivers, the former limited to 80 N. H. P., the latter to 30 N. H. P.

15. We deprecate the introduction of a further complication by making "tonnage" a basis. All along N. H. P. has been the test both in the Acts of 1868 and 1884. We do not see that there would be any advantage in altering this, and trust that this certain factor will remain the test of a steamer's capacity.

16. We shall feel much obliged if the Commissioners will give our views as here expressed their careful consideration, and pass them on to Government with such comment as they may deem necessary.

Dated 3rd September 1889.

From—MESSRS. MACNEILL & Co., Agents, Rivers Steam Navigation Co., "Ld.,"

To—The Secretary to the Port Commissioners.

We beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of 31st ultimo, enclosing copy of one, No. 1760 (Marine), dated 3rd idem, from the Government of Bengal, with reference to the proposed amendment of section 28(2) of the Inland Steam-vessels Act, which provides that an inland steam-vessel having engines of under 80 nominal horse-power is required to have a second class master and an engineer possessing an engine-driver's certificate, and asking for our opinion with reference thereto.

We have fully considered the matter in question, and have no hesitation in saying at the outset that the form the present proposal takes is the very reverse of what our experience would have led us to expect as advisable in the general interests of the development of inland steam navigation in Bengal. For our Directors are so satisfied with the experience this Company possesses of the results attending the use of natives, under strict European supervision, on their vessels, that they contemplated requesting permission from Government to run special coal vessels manned by natives only, so as to meet the requirements of the Assam coal trade, which has recently assumed considerable proportions; and apart from the requirements of the trade, the principal argument this Company could use in support of such a request would be the success that has hitherto attended the exclusive use of native serangs, and the difficulty of obtaining in any number the services of competent Europeans for the same work.

Our experience of working steamers with natives goes back as far as 1882, when we built two small vessels of 60 tons, both of which ran regularly on the Hooghly, and afterwards as feeder steamers in Assam waters, and from that time to this, when these steamers are still running in charge of natives, no accident of a serious nature has happened to either of these vessels. As our principal experience of the working of inland steam-vessels by natives, however, we would refer to those carrying the Assam mails on the Brahmaputra, subsidised under contract with the Secretary of State for India. The steamers of this line, which were originally nine in number, were designed and built, with the knowledge of Government, with the express idea of being run in charge of natives, and on no other understanding could this Company have contracted with Government for a period of years as it did. This line of steamers was afterwards increased to thirteen, again to seventeen, and now consists of twenty vessels, which maintain a daily service on the Brahmaputra between Goalundo and Debrooghur and vice versa. This service started in 1884. When it ran daily between Dhubri and Debrooghur only and up to this time, it has not become responsible for any loss of life or serious accident of any kind. During the whole of that period these vessels have been in the charge of native serangs and of native tindals, except when we have found it advisable (when adding to the fleet vessels of a new type) to have a European engineer in charge, until we were satisfied that a native might with safety take his place. At present only four of the twenty vessels previously referred to are in charge of a European engineer, and these engineers we expect to relieve very shortly. No doubt the use of natives alone in charge of steamers on such a large scale as we have described was by some considered experimental, but our experience of over five years, in our opinion, fully justifies the experiment, and it may not be out of place to mention that our principal Executive in Assam, who has superintended the Mail Service since it started, and has also controlled the working of our larger vessels, considers that there are several of the native serangs in question who are now fully competent to take charge of our largest vessels with flats in tow. Under these circumstances, therefore, it certainly would not seem to us inadvisable were we permitted to increase the responsibility of these serangs, and in making such a suggestion we do not for a moment overlook the necessity of doing everything in our power to secure the proper and safe working of the vessels of this Company. Assuming for the sake of argument that we had to put European commanders on all the boats on the Assam Mail line, to do so would require all the fifteen commanders of our large steamers as well as the five passed men we have in reserve. It is needless to say that a change of this kind, at the present day, would completely paralyse the working of this Company's vessels.

We received a similar reference to the one now under reply from the Secretary to the Chamber of Commerce, to which we deferred replying until receipt of some particulars called for from Assam, including independent testimony in support of our opinions; but to meet the wishes of your Vice-Chairman, we send you this our reply this afternoon. Should any fresh information of value reach us from Assam, we presume we have your permission to address you again on the subject.

No. 6763—39078, dated 6th September 1889.

From—MESSRS. HOARE, MILLER, & Co., Managing Agents, Calcutta S. N. Co., Ltd.,
To—The Secretary to the Port Commissioners, Calcutta.

We have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 1241 of the 4th instant, handing us a copy of Marine Department's No. 1760, dated 3rd August 1889.

1. Before the passing of Act VI of 1884, native serangs could take charge of steam-vessels not exceeding 100 tons gross register tonnage according to Act VII of 1879, and certificated native engine-drivers could take charge of vessels of 50 nominal horse-power according to the rules under Act I of 1868, published on 12th September 1877 and 5th September 1881. By Act VI of 1884, a vessel under 80 nominal horse-power but of indeterminate tonnage may be commanded by a second class master, but rules for the examination of second class masters which the Local Government is empowered (Act VI of 1884, section 29) to frame have not yet been issued, and, consequently, no examinations have been held nor certificates granted for second class masters.

2. We have the honour to suggest that rules be now issued for the examination for certificates of competency of second class masters. These rules should state the tonnage for which the certificates may be granted, and should be so framed as to ensure that only those, whether European or Native, competent to undertake the duties will be able to obtain certificates.

3. In order that it may not be incumbent on owners to place a second class master in charge of a small steam launch, provision may be made for permitting the issue of certificates to serangs to command steam-vessels up to 100 tons, as is done at present by the Calcutta Port Office.

4. The rules for examination of engine-drivers under Act I of 1868, which are practically identical with those under Act VI of 1884, were unsuccessful in selecting the most desirable men, they being usually unable even to keep their engines in good working order without the continual assistance of fitters and vicemen, although these drivers are perhaps sufficiently reliable to take charge of small engines, and might therefore be still allowed to take charge of engines up to 50 nominal horse-power, it being clearly unnecessary that men with the knowledge and attainments which would be requisite to enable them to take charge of engines of 80 nominal horse-power, accompanied by auxiliary machinery, should be in charge of ordinary high pressure launch engines of (say) 5 nominal horse-power.

5. If the rules under Act VI of 1884, according to which engine-drivers' certificates are granted, are so amended as to select men with some knowledge of the construction and repairs of engines, there would be no reason why engines of 80 nominal horse-power should not be entrusted to the engine-drivers who would be able to obtain such certificates.

6. If the masters of the smaller vessels are divided into second class masters and serangs, and certificates granted to second class masters to command vessels of 200 or 300 tons, and to serangs to command vessels of 100 tons; and if the engine-drivers' certificates are similarly granted for 80 nominal horse-power and 50 nominal horse-power, the conditions of eligibility for examinations, and the examinations themselves, being commensurate with the responsibilities which the certificated men will be called upon to undertake, we are of opinion that the present difficulty will be removed, and that thoroughly reliable men can be found.

NOTIFICATION No. 133Mne.

The 26th May 1890.—The following draft of a rule which it is proposed to issue in modification of Rule 22 of the rules to regulate the granting of certificates of competency to masters of inland steam-vessels made under section 29 of the Inland Steam-vessels Act, 1884, and published in the Appendix to the Calcutta Gazette of the 5th February 1890, is published for general information.
